My Heart I Give to Children

ISBN: 978-0-9805885-7-6 (paperback)

ISBN: 978-0-6485800-3-4 (hardback)

Available in paperback, hardback and eBook formats from major online retailers.

This book is an account of how Sukhomlinsky educated a group of 31 preschoolers, and how he continued to work with them during the four years of their primary schooling. It addresses issues such as our relationship with nature, how to help children develop empathy for others, how schools can develop strong relationships with families, how children's brains function and develop, and how to foster an intrinsic love of learning.

Our School in Pavlysh

ISBN: 978-0-6485800-4-1 (paperback)

ISBN: 978-0-6485800-5-8 (hardback)

Available in paperback, hardback and eBook formats from major online retailers.

This book describes how Sukhomlinsky worked as a principal, mentoring teachers, teaching students, running an educational program for parents, and overseeing a very extensive extracurricular program. It shows how Sukhomlinsky's school functioned to deliver a holistic education that addressed children's developmental needs: physical, emotional, moral, intellectual, vocational and aesthetic, and how it fostered the qualities of curiosity, empathy, and creativity.

Each One Must Shine

ISBN: 978-0-9945625-9-3 (paperback)

Available in paperback and eBook formats from major online retailers.

This book is the most comprehensive study of Sukhomlynsky in the English language and provides an introduction to the life and work of this remarkable educator. It shows how Sukhomlynsky overcame personal tragedy and ideological opposition to become one of the most influential educators of the twentieth century.
